

festival per l'art
a valència
2017

FIRST. General characteristics of the call

The Intramurs cultural association announces the selection process of artistic projects for the fourth edition of "INTRAMURS, festival per l'art a València" (INTRAMURS, festival for art in Valencia), a sample of urban and interdisciplinary character that will take place between the 19th and 329th October 2017 in Valencia.

The Intramurs cultural association is composed of professionals from the contemporary art: artists, designers, producers and managers.

The convocation to select artistic projects is aimed at all kinds of artists, regardless of their age, nationality, address, their relationship with the neighborhood or the city, etc.

The purpose of the festival is to promote contemporary art in all its aspects and bring it closer to citizens, promoting that the arts and culture are affordable and can be enjoyed by all. The intention is its pre-eminently urban character, enhancing the public character of all activities. With this intention, we want to move away from the use of institutional exhibition halls or the more traditional exhibitions to enhance the artistic and cultural exhibitions in urban or unconventional spaces, allowing the public to be present and part of the art in its urban context.

The area of celebration of the Festival is bounded by the surrounding urban space within the ancient walls of the city of Valencia, which is known as the district of "Ciutat Vella" and including: "La Seu", "La Xerea", "The Mercat", "The Carmen", "Velluters" and "Sant Francesc". Also the selection of virtual pieces is contemplated whenever they are linked with the district.

The festival wants to be in permanent contact with associations, institutions and shops of the area, with the intention to boost it culturally. So urban space will be used entirely as a context and framework for all artistic expressions, in many private spaces (studios, halls, bars, restaurants) and public spaces (streets, squares, gardens, pieces of wasteland, shop windows ...).

Projects will be selected from any type of contemporary artistic expression, whenever it is feasible in its implementation, and it meets the requirements of participation, given that our logistical limitations or lack of space can condition its viability. Any discipline is welcome: urban interventions, action art, performances, sound art, dance, poetry, video, fashion, photography, sculpture, painting, etc.

After the celebration of the festival, INTRAMURS intends to set up a gallery or permanent bank online data with pieces of the festival (once made and documented), as well as any other kind of record that has been obtained, such as routes, photos, videos, lectures, debates, interviews with artists and the public, etc., to serve as a catalog of data and consulting for artists and art professionals.

SECOND. Requirements for participation in urban interventions

Somehow projects must be integrated into the context of the historical center, either with its history, its society, its architecture, etc., and if possible, to claim the historical center of Valencia as a space of cultural and artistic diversity for the XXI century.

This year there is a theme: EN CRU, EN CRUDO, IN THE RAW.

Priority is given to projects of specific character, public intervention, the interaction with the public and new technologies. Pieces that are not in tune with the context or the philosophy of the festival will be not selected. Priority shall be given to artists who had not been selected in the previous edition of the Festival.

Each project must be self-sufficient in production, assembled and disassembled. And it is provided with the specific technology if the piece requires it.

Projects must not infringe the honor of others, human or animal rights, and will be dismissed those who cause social rejection: racism, sexism or xenophobia.

Projects can be directly elected by the curators and festival coordinators (guest artists) or through the open convocation and a selection committee and its bases (these) are on the web (www.intramurs.org).

THIRD. Presentation of urban interventions by open call

The deadline for submission of projects by open call ends on April 30, 2017.

FOURTH. Arrangements of the organization

The organization will be give maximum publicity to the projects undertaken in INTRAMURS. The organization has its own web and social networks to spread everything that happens during the festival, so users can be constantly informed. The web, after the festival, will continue to operate as a bank of documentation and information, which can be modified and adapted.

The organization is not able to afford to pay accommodations or trips, but may have discounts on transports and accommodation. For the same reason, any fees or cache will not be paid.

Should any particular proposal deal with a project deemed of a specific nature and sufficiently developed to be eventually produced, sponsorship funds will be sought.

The festival plans to organize for the participating artists spaces of meeting and conviviality, with food and drink.

The organization of INTRAMURS will manage permits for the use of public space. There will also be other urban spaces such as waste grounds or the possibility of other private spaces that can be open for the occasion, as closed shops, shop windows, balconies or other places might be involved. Any place or space that will intervene must state in the project very clearly.

INTRAMURS will have civil liability insurance.

INTRAMURS will have a small team of assembly, as well as interns and volunteers that can possibly help. In case you need this kind of help, you have to specify it.

INTRAMURS will ensure the safety of the works, as far as possible, although the organization will not be responsible in case of breakdown, loss or theft of any pieces.
